Regional Household Hazardous Waste Round-Ups A Huge Success

In September and October, residents of the RDCK and RDCK Municipalities safely disposed of approximately 26,965 liters of hazardous liquids at five HHW round-up events held in Castlegar, Creston, Kaslo, Nakusp, and Nelson. Other miscellaneous items such as fire extinguishers, mercury, lead and compressed gas cylinders totaling 2,987 kg were also collected at the events.

An additional 8,335 liters of paint, 1,034 kg of batteries, 4,800 kg of electronic waste and 821 kg of electrical appliances were collected at no charge to the RDCK by the Product Stewards.

"The results demonstrate that the residents of the RDCK and Municipalities want to do the right thing and dispose of hazardous materials safely. All the events were very well attended and we are pleased with the volume of materials that were collected," said Uli Wolf, General Manager of Environmental Services. The results strongly demonstrate that improved services for Product Stewardship Programs is needed in the region.

2013 marks the second year in a row that the RDCK has organized collection events for residents to dispose

We hear it every day. "The only problem with Blundstone boots is that they last too long." In our throw-away world wouldn't it be nice if every product had such a "problem"? If they got better over time, not worse? Landfills are full of broken promises. But they're not full of Blundstone boots. We're comfortable with that.

of household hazardous waste at no charge. "The round-up events were a worthwhile endeavour as there was a huge volume of toxic materials that were collected. This demonstrates to us that the stewardship programs are not adequately servicing this area," said John Kettle, RDCK Board Chair.

The RDCK would like to thank all the volunteers, Product Stewardship Organizations, the Nelson Leafs Bottle Depot and contractors who worked hard at the events to ensure residents were served quickly and safely.

Many common household products are toxic and can damage the environment if tossed in the garbage or flushed down the drain. Some materials collected at the round-up events like paint and electronics are recycled, while other hazardous materials are safely disposed of. For more information about what was collected at the events: www.rdck.bc.ca. For information on BC's product stewardship programs, including depot locations, visit: www.rcbc.bc.ca or 1-800-667-4321.

Director's Corner

1. Climate Change Human Caused or Otherwise

This fall has seen a whirlwind of activity that does not appear to be slowing down in Area D and beyond. During a twenty-four hour period on June 19th and 20th we had the third highest rainfall since records were first kept in the early 1900s, except it all came down in a day and not over the entire month. Only 2005, 2012 and one other year had higher precipitation for the month of June.

As a consequence I have been made aware of future flood potential on at least 7 creeks and have been working with residents on 4 to obtain approval for them to do repair work in and around the stream under Section 9 of the Water Act.

To date residents on Campbell, Schroeder, Fletcher and Keen Creeks have received permission to undertake remedial work as a means to prevent future flood damage, and I am continuing to hold discussions with various agencies concerning Cooper Creek.

While I, as Director for Area D, have had some success persuading the provincial government that flood prevention work is preferable to spending hundreds of thousands of $ cleaning up after a flood, never mind the personal heartbreak of loss, potential injury and death, the government has still not seen fit to financially assist in helping prevent flooding.

In addition I have been working with Kaslo and District Community Forest Society in helping them obtain funding from Disaster Financial Assistance for stream monitoring stations that were lost during the 2013 freshet event, and in finding longer term funding to keep the program operating.

Given the extreme weather related events over the last two years I believe it is essential that we have a robust stream monitoring program in Area D so we can determine how stream flows are changing.

And on August 12, 2013 I wrote to Julie Castonguay at Forest Land and Natural Resource Operations indicating that any proposed change to Visual Quality retention rates in the Kootenay Lake Timber Supply Area must be accompanied by an appropriate hydrological assessment of timing and flow, potential quality alterations and potential landslide configurations in the creeks of Area D. This is especially important in those drainages used for domestic and commercial water and/or those above pre-existing subdivisions, hamlets and unincorporated communities.

As I toured the various creeks to review damage and potential future impacts from flooding with residents of Area D, a growing concern emerged for me that we could run out of money to fix freshet infrastructure problems if we do not at the same time address future use of fossil fuels.

If, as the the United Nations International Panel on Climate Change states, human induced climate change is now 99% certain, then we must as a society develop a much more robust program to reduce carbon emissions or else run the risk of being unable to maintain community infrastructure, our economy and the very social fabric upon which civilization rests.

Alarmist? Well, archaeological history is full of examples of lost civilizations that were, for whatever reason, unable to adjust to climate change – so we would not be the first to fail.

3. UBCM AGM and Small Water System Working Group

In September I chaired three early morning panel discussions at the Union of BC Municipalities AGM on Local Food Systems, how to promote citizen participation in local government decision making, and the third on the legal liabilities that face elected local government officials.

As reported elsewhere I was also part of a Village of Kaslo delegation that met with the IHA and the Minister of Health over Kaslo's ongoing doctor shortage and reduced health care services. Subsequently I am part of the team that is trying to negotiate a framework agreement for finding solutions. This includes involving the Rural Coordinating Centre of BC – an organization set up by the provincial government and the British Columbia Medical Association to assist rural communities with health care crises.

I was also part of an RDCK delegation that met with the Minister of Health to advise that the Gar Creek Water Users Association, in Johnson's Landing, had successfully negotiated an agreement in principle for use of Point-of-Use and Point-of-Entry treatment devices, which involved transferring responsibility for maintaining and providing potable water from the water system/purveyor to the individual homeowner, as allowed for under the current Drinking Water Protection Regulation and Act.

Previously, for about twenty years in fact, various health care professionals and the IHA were reluctant to approve options that involved individual homeowners being responsible for their own water treatment. Given that many very small water systems in the West Kootenay, and across BC, are not legally constituted as a single purveyor, but more often exist informally as a loose collection of family, friends and neighbours, it is hoped that Point-of-Entry and/or Point-of-Use will give homeowners the ability to provide themselves with an affordable water treatment option.

In early October I used the example of the Gar Creek Water Users Association agreement, ratified by the members of the system in late September, as a living example to be used in the drafting of a province-wide recommendation to the Minister of Health and Cabinet between the Union of BC Municipalities, Ministry of Health, the Health Authorities, Water Rights Branch/Water Comptrollers office,

Ministry of Community Services,
Sport and Cultural Development.

After three years, of often near gridlock at the negotiation table inside the Small Water System Working Group, I have a faint glimmer of hope that the right of individual homeowners on small water systems to determine water treatment options that are affordable, might finally be officially recognized.

I was also part of an RDCK delegation, at the UBCM AGM, that met with the Minister responsible for expanding and improving rural and remote internet service for residences and businesses.

4. Recycling

In September the RDCK Board advised Multi-Materials BC (MMBC) that it would not continue the current recycling program beyond May 2014 and that for a variety of reasons it would not sign up to MMBC's incentive program either. Among other things, the requirement to fence and staff all existing recycling depots would cost RDCK taxpayers another $700,000 in capital expenditures alone.

As a consequence, and based on similar sentiments from a majority of local governments around BC, I moved an amendment at the UBCM Board meeting to a special resolution being prepared for the membership at the AGM, that MMBC must be required to continue recycling programs previously developed by local governments in remote and rural BC.

Once on the floor of the AGM, I then moved a second amendment requiring the UBCM Executive to create a negotiating committee to work with MMBC and the provincial government to ensure that the transition to MMBC taking over recycling and expanding to include all packaging take place smoothly.

That Committee has now been formed and Chair Rob Gay from the East Kootenay Regional District is one of 8 members on the Committee who met for the first time on October 16th.

5. Smart Meter Opt Out Programs

I am currently registered as intervenor in both the FortisBC and BC Hydro hearings before the BC Utilities Commission, trying to ensure that any smart meter opt out programs are not punitive and/or discriminatory, in terms of cost to low income and health challenged customers of these two utilities.

6. 2014 Budget Deliberations Begin

On October 24th the Kaslo and Area Recreation, Facilities and Parks Service Commission met to discuss the 2014 budget. With the exception of some additional capital expenditures at the Lardeau Valley Community Centre and Johnson's Landing Hall, all involved recommended that allocations remain at or be slightly below the 2013 budget.

Hopefully the RDCK Board will be able to hold the line on expenditures for all district-wide services as well, except where it is agreed to continue expanding the level of the service being offered.

but uncertain how to incorporate these into business plans and actions. Often working alone or with a small staff, these enterprises may face "idea isolation." They have a great idea but no regular contact with peers or experts to discuss it and ensure they've explored all angles in order to create the right business strategy. Or in some cases, business owners and organizations may simply not know what they don't know and need advice on where to focus their research, energy and time.

The BBA program helps business owners by first connecting them with one of four specialized business advisors. The program is one-on-one and client driven, so while some businesses will choose to focus on specific topics for a short advice session, others will choose a full assessment of all aspects of their organization. The goal is to provide business owners with a fresh, professional perspective on their business health and information about where to find the best return on their investment.

Interested parties can contact the program to determine eligibility and create a plan to get the business support they need. The program is designed to provide expertise, support success and with the right approach, a better night's sleep. More on the BBA program can be viewed at www.cbt.org/bba

Let The Light Shine In!

We are thrilled to announce that the Kaslo and Area Youth Centre (KAYC) has had some major upgrades that are a total success. This transformation is due to local youth and community members who committed hours of labour and volunteer time to ensure youth and the community of Kaslo would be impressed by the upgrades.

In June, North Kootenay Lake Community Services Society (NKLCS) received three separate grants to address the number one issue prioritized by the Kaslo Community Directed Youth Fund (CDYF) Advisory Committee; upgrades for KAYC.

We are grateful to Columbia Basin Trust (CBT) who provided the core funding for the upgrades through the Youth Grants Program Fund. The Community Fund of North Kootenay Lake and The Village of Kaslo funded the very

The Whole School's Exciting Fundraising Progress

As the seasons change and we all bustle to get ready for the winter, the parents, students and staff of The Whole School are still busy working hard to reach their upcoming "Build a Legacy" fundraising goal. To date these dedicated folks have already raised over $27,000 towards the down payment needed to buy their school building. Over $16,000 of these funds represent the huge efforts of parents through garage sales, bakes sales and charitable community donations. The remaining amount represents the generous community response from last spring's Area H - CBT Community Initiatives meeting and a significant contribution from the RDCK Community Development Fund. While we are proud of our success so far, we are committed to achieving our goal of $55,000 by next spring. To this end, we are asking the community for their continued support of upcoming events.

Everyone at the school is getting excited for our upcoming annual Blue Moon Coffee House being held Saturday, December 14 at the Passmore Hall. Come join us for a scrumptious dinner, decadent treats and great evening of delightful music while you find those unique gifts amongst our beautiful holiday silent auction items.

We had a super successful 15th Annual Turkey Fundraiser again this fall thanks to the many community folks who bought their delicious Thanksgiving turkeys through us (there are still 9 turkeys looking for good homes if you are interested, call the school (250) 226-7737 and ask for Jane).

For more information about this valley's unique alternative education choice, The Whole School, or to make a donation to the Build a Legacy fundraising campaign visit our website www.wholeschool.ca or call us at (250) 226-7737. As a registered charity, your donations are tax deductible (charitable receipt available upon request).

Auditions For Rent In Nelson

Elephant Mountain Music Theatre will be holding auditions for their inaugural production, Jonathan Larson's Tony and Pulitzer prize-winning musical Rent.

Based on the opera La Boheme, and set in the gritty Alphabet City neighbourhood of New York City circa 1989, Rent tells the story of a group of friends and artists struggling to find life and creative expression amongst poverty, gentrification, homophobia, addiction, and the rising threat of HIV/AIDS. Rent is a rousing rock musical, with operatic tear-jerking moments, and a score that runs the musical gamut from rock & roll to tango, R&B, pop and moving ballads.

Elephant Mountain Music Theatre is Nelson's newest musical theatre company, established by the team that brought Jesus Christ Superstar to the Capital Theatre: music director Laura Johnson, and stage director Kevin Armstrong, as well as new addition Julie Jonson-Murray. All three are theatre professionals committed to a high level of performance and professionalism, while maintaining a community spirit, and giving performers from the region a chance to perform ambitious repertoire that Kootenay audiences may not get to see otherwise.

Singers are asked to prepare a song from, or in the style of the show (rock musical/rock opera). Please bring sheet music or a karaoke CD to the audition, or be prepared to sing a cappella. There is no age limit to the audition, but we are specifically looking for actors 18+ (and there are no roles for children). There will be a maximum of 14 singers in the ensemble, so competition will be fierce!

Auditions will be held at the First Baptist Church (611 5th Street) in Nelson on Sunday, November 17 from 2 to 8 pm and Monday, November 18 from 6 to 10 pm. To book an audition, please write to Kevin Armstrong at: nelsonrent2014@gmail.com

EVERYBODY DRIVES A USED CAR!

The presidents of all motor companies. The owners of the big local dealerships. And yes, even your neighbour or workmate who just purchased a "new" car.

As soon as it leaves the car lot, it is immediately a used car. The same "new" car loses thousands in resale value when it hits the new car dealer's curb.

Why not save yourself thousands, and start a new relationship with one of our reconditioned and safety checked units? We have over 30 units on the lot, and easy financing is available.

They are clean, reliable and looking for a new partner. If your current relationship is starting to lose its drive, come in and explore your options, to ensure a happier, more stable future with your new travel partner.

We're not here to just sell you a car. We're here to help you build lasting, reliable and fulfilling relationships.

successful Youth Mentorship Carpentry Project. The upgrades included replacement of the kitchen floor, replacement of the old stove, and installation of new windows.

The first task of installing a new kitchen floor provided an opportunity to develop and deliver the Youth Mentorship Carpentry Project. It offered two local youth 30 hours of mentorship designed to teach the basics of carpentry and how to use the right tools for the job. Morgan Cameron and Charlotte Stuyt-Pearce were the two youth participants who were mentored by Yvonne Boyd and Steven Anderson.

PET OF THE WEEK

KARA

You will not find a sweeter, gentler dog than Kara. She will be 13 years old in December, but still has so much life to live and love to give. KAAP rescued her after her person passed away, and there was nobody willing to take her on. She had no future.

From the moment she came in to KAAP, she fit in seamlessly with her foster family which includes adults, kids and small dogs. She loves moderate walks, swims, car-rides, and mostly hanging out on her comfy sofa.

Kara has been vet-checked and is in good health, although arthritis does tend to slow her down a bit. KAAP is looking to place Kara in a forever retirement home where she will receive the care and attention she so richly deserves. There is no adoption fee for Kara. To the perfect adopter, KAAP would consider providing support for Kara's ongoing care.

If you can offer a great retirement home for this deserving girl, please contact KAAP at 250-551-1053 or visit her online at www.kaap.ca/adopt/kara.

Our second task was to replace the old stove. This is where divine intervention occurred. The Kaslo and Area Arena contacted KAYC to offer a stove and fridge that were in good working order for KAYC. This was an offer KAYC couldn't refuse, and as a result we had an extra $450 with which we could frame in the windows.

Our third task was to install new windows. Thanks to Gord at Kaslo Glass, the youth center is looking incredibly beautiful from the outside and brightly inviting on the inside. There was one minor stumbling block that had to be addressed. The 12 inch gap between the extra thick exterior log wall and the very thin forged wall on the inside. Phillip Trotter came to the rescue with his skilled hands and volunteered his time to creatively frame the windows. Let the light shine in!

KAYC is currently running a Girls Group, for girls 12-18 years old, on Wednesdays from 3:30-6 pm. They cook, do art, talk and support each other as well as engage in fun activities. KAYC is now open for Saturday Night Drop Ins, 6-10 pm for the month of November. For more information call Liz at 250-353-7753.

Youth and community members are invited to attend the KAYC Annual General Meeting (AGM) on November 13 at 6 pm. To book KAYC for community events, workshops or classes contact Mike Moeller at 250-353-9617

KAYC will be hosting a Community Open House in celebration of the upgrades, keep your eyes and ears peeled for date and time.
