Welcome to the new Palgrave Macmillan Globalization and International Relations Catalogue.

This year we are delighted to be publishing several paperbacks with wide, general appeal as well as a typically strong line-up of undergraduate and academic texts. Inside Egypt, already a bestseller in hardback, is now available for the first time in paperback; as is the chilling indictment of Guantanamo Bay Prison, Five Years of my Life. A new book co-published with Amnesty International, Created Equal, provides a valuable and very accessible overview of the current state of women’s rights around the world.

New academic highlights include some valuable additions to the highly regarded Palgrave Advances series: Jim Whitman’s Palgrave Advances in Global Governance and Oliver Richmond’s Palgrave Advances in Peacebuilding, plus some major new additions to the International Political Economy and Palgrave Studies in International Relations series. Another key highlight is Ronald Bleiker’s Aesthetics and World Politics.

Theories of Nationalism
A Critical Introduction
2nd edition

Umut Ozkirimli, Associate Professor of International Relations, Istanbul Bilgi University, Turkey; Senior Research Fellow, Hellenic Observatory, London School of Economics and Political Science, UK

Review of the 1st edition:
‘[A] comprehensive, balanced and critical overview of current debates on nationalism...This is at once an informed survey of a field of literature and, in its own right, an intervention in the subject...It is one of the, several, contributions of this impressive book that it enables us, by comprehending the range of theories of nationalism, to see these debates in a wider intellectual and historical context.’ - Professor Fred Halliday, London School of Economics and Political Science, UK

This is at once an informed survey of a field of literature and, in its own right, an intervention in the subject...It is one of the, several, contributions of this impressive book that it enables us, by comprehending the range of theories of nationalism, to see these debates in a wider intellectual and historical context.

This widely-used and acclaimed text provides a comprehensive and balanced introduction to the main theoretical perspectives on nationalism. The fully-updated 2nd edition includes expanded coverage of recent theories and debates, more systematic critical assessment of all traditions, and boxes on key thinkers.

Contents:
Preface to the Second Edition / Introduction / Discourses and Debates on Nationalism / Primordialism-Perennialism / Modernism / Ethnosymbolism / New Approaches to Nationalism / Rethinking Nationalism / Conclusion / Bibliography

Jeremy Youde, Assistant Professor of Political Science, University of Minnesota Duluth, USA

Using historical and contemporary case studies, Youde traces the shifting balance between surveillance and global public good provision and suggests that a human rights-based strategy offers a stable compromise.

The New Political Sociology
Power, Ideology and Identity in an Age of Complexity

Graham Taylor, Reader in Sociology, University of the West of England, UK

‘A bold and original contribution to the field.’ - Chris Rumford, Royal Holloway, University of London, UK

The twenty-first century has witnessed a fundamental transformation of political institutions and society, alongside cultural, global and complexity turns in social theory. This provocative text gives an overview of key issues, argues for an ‘existential turn’ in political sociology and brings the study of politics and society up-to-date.

Islam’s Marriage with Neoliberalism

State Transformation in Turkey

Yildiz Atasoy, Associate Professor of Sociology, Simon Fraser University, Canada

The transformation of the Turkish state is examined here in the context of globalized frames of neoliberal capitalism and contemporary schemas of Islamic politics. It shows how the historical emergence of two distinct yet intertwined imaginaries of state structuring, laiklik and Islam, continues to influence Turkish politics today.

The Gendering of Global Finance

Libby Assassi, Associate Fellow, Centre for Gender Studies, University of Sussex, UK

‘Its rich historical detail reminds us that gendered relations of credit and finance have transformed over time and across myriad forms of political and economic organization.’ - Professor Mary Condon, Osgoode Hall Law School, York University, Canada

This book explores the gendered nature of the historical emergence of modern finance markets and their expansion to a now global scale. It analyzes the ways in which women were and still are marginalized in terms of financial activity and associated structures of power which play a critical role in shaping the contemporary global political economy.

Globalization, the State and Political Sociology

Created Equal: Voices on Women's Rights
Amnesty International and Anna Horsbrugh-Porter, Radio Journalist who has worked for the BBC World Service, BBC Radio Four and independent production companies for nearly twenty years.

Millions of women throughout the world suffer from violence, poverty and denial of their human rights because of their gender. By exploring their stories, and hearing the views of both advocates for and opponents of women's rights, in Created Equal, Anna Horsbrugh-Porter reveals the real human costs of the violation of these rights.

Building Decent Societies: Rethinking the Role of Social Security in Development
Edited by Peter Townsend, sometime Professor of International Social Policy, London School of Economics and Political Science, UK

This book builds the case for a comprehensive social security system to be developed in all countries - to eliminate desperate conditions of poverty, reverse growing inequality and sustain economic growth. It gives the history of the rich countries in meeting poverty and shows how the strategies in the poor countries can be greatly improved.

Gendering Religion and Politics: Untangling Modernities
Hanna Herzog, Professor of Sociology and Anthropology, Tel Aviv University, Israel, and Ann Braude, Director, Women's Studies in Religion Program; Senior Lecturer in American Religious History, Harvard Divinity School, USA

The aim of this book is to suggest an interdisciplinary perspective on the complex relations of gender, religion and politics in light of paradigmatic shifts in theories of modernity and the growing body of studies on gender and religion.

Nationalism in a Global World
Sam Pryke, Senior Lecturer in Sociology, Liverpool Hope University, UK

What can globalization studies tell us about national identity? This text looks at historical and contemporary debates to assess the key issues of nationalism and national identity, from economic nationalism to cultural homogenization. Setting issues in a global context and packed with examples, this is an important and engaging student text.

Transnational Public Governance

Networks, Law and Legitimacy

Michael J. Warning, Attorney, Germany

This book explores the work of transnational bureaucracy networks. These networks address global issues by creating rules - transnational public law - to be incorporated into national legal orders. As classical means fail to legitimize such activities, this book gives a practical account of viable alternative legitimacy mechanisms.

Anti-Apartheid and the Emergence of a Global Civil Society

Håkan Thörn, Professor of Sociology, Göteborg University, Sweden

‘...a rare full-length, empirically detailed and conceptually sophisticated examination of the bases of global political solidarity...It is to be hoped that this work gets the wide attention in global social movement studies that it warrants.’

Jan Aart Scholte, Acta Sociologica

Looking at anti-apartheid as part of the history of present global politics, this book provides the first comparative analysis of different sections of the transnational anti-apartheid movement. The author emphasizes the importance of a historical perspective on political cultures, social movements, and global civil society.

The Importance of Neglect in Policy-Making

Michiel S. De Vries, Professor of Public Administration, Radboud University, The Netherlands

De Vries argues that it is possible to explain when and in what direction policy change is likely to occur. He argues that what is neglected at present is likely to become dominant in policies of the near future. With the birth of a new policy generation a convergence towards meeting the dominant value of that generation will become evident.

GLOBAL GOVERNANCE

GLOBAL ISSUES

Series Editor: Jim Whitman

This series comprises three principal themes: the interaction of human and natural systems; co-operation and conflict; and the enactment of values.

The Role of Business in Global Governance

Corporations as Norm-Entrepreneurs

Annegret Flohr, Lothar Rieth, both Research Associates, Darmstadt University of Technology, Germany; Sandra Schwindenhammer, Research Assistant, FernUniversität in Hagen, Germany and Klaus Dieter Wolf, Deputy Director, Peace Research Institute Frankfurt, Germany

The Role of Business in Global Governance offers an empirically rich analysis of the new political role of corporations in the co-performance of governance functions beyond the state. Within comparative case studies, potential explanations of the political role of transnational corporations are systematically tested.

States Versus Markets
The Emergence of a Global Economy
3rd edition

Herman M. Schwartz, Professor of Politics, University of Virginia, USA

‘This edition improves on an already outstanding text. What Schwartz does here is highly unusual and highly rewarding: he draws students into an adventure in learning that conveys knowledge about both the origins and evolution of a global political economy and the development of IPE as a branch of learning.’ - Randall D. Germain, Carleton University, Canada

States Versus Markets shows that globalization is not a novel phenomenon but a recurrent process whereby markets have, since the sixteenth century, periodically redistributed economic activity. This revised and updated new edition takes account of the new rise of Asia and the global financial crisis originating in the US housing finance system.

Celtic Tiger in Collapse
Explaining the Weaknesses of the Irish Model

Peadar Kirby, Professor of International Politics and Public Policy, University of Limerick, Republic of Ireland

Since the publication of Kirby’s Celtic Tiger in Distress, there have been fundamental changes in the Irish growth model. The sudden collapse of the Irish economy in 2008 raises questions such as: why the sudden and deep decline in economic growth? What are the prospects for a return to growth? This fully updated and revised work proves yet again to be the definitive work on the Celtic Tiger.

Chinese Capitalisms
Historical Emergence and Political Implications

Edited by Yin-wah Chu, Associate Professor, Department of Sociology, Hong Kong Baptist University, Hong Kong

In Chinese Capitalisms, experts examine the rise of capitalism on China and Taiwan, analyzing impacts exerted by global capitalism, Chinese civilization, and remnants of socialist practice. In focusing on these, they also address longstanding issues such as Weber’s China Thesis, state–business relationships, and China’s civil society, among others.

American Empire and the Political Economy of Global Finance

Edited by Leo Panitch, Distinguished Research Professor, York University, Canada and Martijn Konings, Researcher, University of Sydney, Australia

'This book is essential reading in understanding how the world works.' - Susanne Soederberg, Canada Research Chair, Global Development Studies, Queen's University, Canada

In a lively critique of how international and comparative political economy misjudge the relationship between global markets and states, this book demonstrates the central place of the American state in today's world of globalized finance. The contributors set aside traditional emphases on military intervention, looking instead to economics.

World Orders, Development and Transformation

Eunice N. Sahle, Assistant Professor, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, USA

The book examines how hegemonic development ideas and practices emerged in the context of the changing world order post-1945 and how this transformation was characterized by neoliberalism and securitization of development and security. Sahle also explores the rise of China and the start of Obama's presidency.

The Politics of Housing Booms and Busts

Edited by Herman M. Schwartz, Professor of Politics, University of Virginia, USA and Leonard Seabrooke, Professor in International Political Economy, University of Warwick, UK

'If you want to understand why the financial world just blew up I cannot think of a better place to start.' - Mark Blyth, The Johns Hopkins University, USA

This book demonstrates how housing systems are built from political struggles over the distribution of welfare and wealth. The contributors analyze varieties of residential capitalism through a range of international case studies, as well as investigating the links between housing finance and the current international financial crisis.

Health for Some
The Political Economy of Global Health Governance
Edited by Sandra J. MacLean, Associate Professor of Political Science, Sherri A. Brown, Department of Political Science, both at Simon Fraser University, Canada and Pieter Fourie, Senior Lecturer, Department of Politics, Macquarie University, Australia

Poverty and inequality are among the most significant determinants of health. Increased inequality gaps associated with globalization have serious implications for global health. Global changes in political economy shape global health, influencing who bears the burden from epidemics, unhealthy environments and lack of access to health care.

Global Health Governance
Crisis, Institutions and Political Economy
Edited by Adrian Kay, Professor of Public Policy, Salford Business School, UK and Owain David Williams, Research Fellow, Centre for Health and International Relations, Aberystwyth University, UK

Eminent scholars investigate the sharp contrast between the acute and multi-dimensional scale of the challenges to global health governance and the contradictory and ineffective responses to them. They draw on a wide range of disciplines to uncover the critical political economy dynamics in the contemporary governance of global health.

Competitive Regionalism
FTA Diffusion in the Pacific Rim
Edited by Mireya Solis, Associate Professor, School of International Service, American University, USA, Barbara Stallings, William R. Rhodes Research Professor, Brown University, USA and Saori N. Katada, Associate Professor of International Relations, University of Southern California, USA

‘In this persuasive book the authors make a major contribution to the understanding of our global political economy.’ - Diana Tussie, FLACSO, Argentina

Despite abundant scepticism about their economic benefits, Free Trade Agreements (FTAs) have proliferated at a rapid pace. Policy diffusion models explain how different sets of preferential trade agreements are interconnected and establish under what conditions FTAs can work for or against the emergence of coherent regional blocs.

Heath, Nixon and the Rebirth of the Special Relationship

Britain, the US and the EC, 1969–74

Niklas H. Rossbach, Holds a PhD in History and Civilization from the European University Institute

This book reveals that 1969–74 was a crucial period for the special relationship. The Heath Government attempted to reverse Britain’s decline as a great power by forging an American-European special relationship out of the Anglo-American relationship. Simultaneously the Nixon Administration tried to recoup the global position of the United States.

Indigeneity, Cosmology, and the Limits of International Theory

J. Marshall Beier, Assistant Professor of Political Science, McMaster University, USA

‘This bold, courageous, and elegantly argued book warrants reading by all IR theorists.’ - V. Spike Peterson, University of Arizona, USA

The book explores how IR has internalized many of the enabling narratives of colonialism in the Americas, evinced most tellingly in its failure to take notice of indigenous peoples. More fundamentally, IR is read as a knowing hegemonic Western voice that, owing to its universalist pretensions, asserts its knowledge to the exclusion of all others.

Promoting Democracy and the Rule of Law

American and European Strategies

Edited by Amichai Magen, Lecturer in Law, Stanford Law School, USA, Thomas Risse, Professor of International Politics, Freie Universität Berlin, Germany and Michael A. McFaul, Professor of Political Science, Stanford University, USA

European and American experts systematically compare US and EU strategies to promote democracy around the world - from the Middle East and the Mediterranean, to Latin America, the former Soviet bloc, and Southeast Asia. In doing so, the authors debunk the pernicious myth that there exists a transatlantic divide over democracy promotion.

What Makes the EU Viable?
European Integration in the Light of the Antebellum US Experience

Andrew Glencross, Lecturer in International Relations, University of Pennsylvania, USA

'A highly original, well-written and conceptualized book that makes an important contribution to ongoing debates in both EU studies and IR.' - Friedrich Kratochwil, Professor of International Relations, European University Institute, Italy

Drawing on international relations theory, law and historical analysis, this book compares European integration with the antebellum USA to assess what makes the EU viable despite contestation over the rules of the game of integration. It reveals that changing the system of representation is no shortcut solution for the EU’s constitutional woes.

International Relations Theory

A New Introduction

Knud Erik Jørgensen, Associate Professor of Political Science, University of Aarhus, Denmark

A major new textbook on International Relations theory written by a leading scholar, suitable for any course on IR theory at either undergraduate or master’s level. The text goes beyond an exploration of the main contending theories in IR and provides cross-cutting coverage of current key issues and debates. Jørgenson also examines the philosophical approaches behind the different theories and suggests why they are addressed to different research agendas. In addition there is a unique chapter explaining how to do theory, which guides students in applying their own theories about world politics to their studies. An essential read for students of Politics and IR.

Classical Liberalism and International Relations Theory

Hume, Smith, Mises, and Hayek

Edwin van de Haar, Lecturer in International Relations, Ateneo de Manila University, Philippines

This book calls for a reappraisal of liberalism in IR theory. Based on the first comprehensive analysis of the ideas by David Hume, Ludwig von Mises and Friedrich Hayek and a new perspective on Adam Smith and international relations, the analysis shows that classical liberalism differs substantially from other forms of liberalism.

German Thought and International Relations

The Rise and Fall of a Liberal Project

Robbie Shilliam, Lecturer in International Relations, Victoria University of Wellington, New Zealand

A fundamental question for IR is whether the value system of liberalism can be universalized, or if, in fact, the illiberal reality of international politics systematically rules out such a universalization. The book addresses this issue by focusing on the rise and fall of a specific liberal project supported by influential German intellectuals.

Securitizing Immigration

The Politics of Risk in the EU

Rens van Munster, Senior Researcher, Research Unit on Defence and Security, Danish Institute for International Studies, Denmark

Securitizing Immigration deals with the growing concern for immigration as a matter of security at the EU level. It combines an analysis of the way bureaucratic and political processes have interacted in the integration process with an analysis of how these practices are located in a context shaped by the preoccupation with risk.

A History of International Political Theory

Ontologies of the International

Hartmut Behr, Professor of International Relations, University of Newcastle, UK

‘…deserves widespread attention across International Relations and beyond.’ - Michael C. Williams, Graduate School of Public and International Affairs, University of Ottawa, Canada

Contemporary theory of international politics faces a twofold problem: the critical engagement with legacies of national power politics in relation to twentieth century International Relations and the regeneration of notions of humanity. This book contributes to this engagement by a genealogy of thoughts on war, peace, and ethics.

Contents:

Part I: Universalism in Greek and Roman Antiquity and Christian Political Philosophy / Part II: Universalistic Thinking from Early Modern Times to Enlightenment / Part III: The Emergence of Particularism in the 19th and 20th Century / Part IV: The Triumph of Particularism in the 20th Century International Relations Theory / Part V: Instead of a Conclusion - Towards Renewed Ontology(ies)

Global Inequality Matters

Darrel Moellendorf, Professor, McGill University, Canada

‘Moellendorf carves out and defends underexplored, promising territory in the philosophy of international justice.’ - Thaddeus Metz, Humanities Research Professor, University of Johannesburg, South Africa

The globalization of trade, investment, and finance continues apace. Many have benefited from this, but deep inequalities persist. This book argues that the interconnections established by globalization make possible a critique of its inequality. For those who take seriously human dignity, equality is a basic presumption of social institutions.

The United States and Iran
Policy Challenges and Opportunities

Jalil Roshandel, Associate Professor; Director of Security Studies Program, and Alethia H. Cook, Assistant Professor of Political Science; Assistant Director, Security Studies Program, both at East Carolina University, USA

Relations between Iran and the US have been strained for over thirty years. This book provides unbiased discussions of issues such as historical relations, the Iranian nuclear program and their support for ‘terrorist’ organizations. It also identifies a wide range of possible US policy solutions to improve relations.

Contents: Iran / US Political History / Modern Iranian Politics / Iran, the US, and Middle East Stability / Iran: State Sponsor of Terror? / Iran and Nuclear Power (or Weapons?) / Toward a More Comprehensive US Foreign Policy for Iran

Living with China
Regional States and China through Crises and Turning Points

Edited by Shiping Tang, Senior Fellow, Mingjiang Li, Assistant Professor, both at S. Rajaratnam School of International Studies, Nanyang Technological University, Singapore and Amitav Acharya, Professor of Political Science, American University in Washington, USA

Although much ink has been used debating China’s rise and its implications for Asia and beyond, few have considered how its neighbours have been living with a rising China. This book fills that vacuum.

Russophobia
Anti-Russian Lobby and American Foreign Policy

Andrei Tsygankov, Professor, Departments of Political Science and International Relations, San Francisco State University, USA

The book suggests that the US-Russia post-9/11 partnership did not endure because much of America’s policy is shaped by an ambition to retain the world’s only superpower. The book analyzes the negative role played by Russophobia and advocates a different approach to Russia in the post-Cold War world.

NEW SECURITY CHALLENGES

Series Editor: Stuart Croft

Securing Europe
European Security in an American Epoch

Lisa Watanabe, Research Officer, Programme on the Geopolitical Implications of Globalization and Transnational Security, Geneva Centre for Security Policy, Switzerland

Securing Europe takes a novel approach to Europeanization among EU member states by employing a sociological institutionalist approach. Watanabe argues that Europeanization as a process of change takes place not as a result of rationally calculating states, but as a result of the reworking of perceptual and normative frameworks.

Television and Terror

Conflicting Times and the Crisis of News Discourse

Andrew Hoskins, Associate Professor of Sociology, University of Warwick, UK and Ben O’Loughlin, Lecturer in International Relations, Royal Holloway, University of London, UK

The advent of the twenty-first century was marked by a succession of conflicts and catastrophes that demanded unrestrained journalism. Hoskins and O’Loughlin demonstrate that television, tarnished by its economy of liveness and its impositions of immediacy, and brevity, fails to deliver critical and consistent expositions of our conflicting times.

The Exclusionary Politics of Asylum

Vicki Squire, RCUK Research Fellow, The Open University, UK

‘Theoretically sophisticated and empirically well-grounded.’ - David Owen, Professor of Social and Political Philosophy, University of Southampton, UK

This critique of the securitization and criminalization of asylum seeking challenges the claim that asylum seekers ‘threaten’ receiving states. It analyzes recent policy developments in relation to their wider historical, political and European contexts and argues that the UK response effectively renders asylum seekers as scapegoats.

Security in the New Europe

Andrew Cottey, Senior Lecturer; Jean Monnet Chair in European Political Integration, University College Cork, Republic of Ireland

‘A comprehensive and cogent assessment. It has the great merit, without minimizing the troubling global and domestic issues that need to be addressed, of focussing our attention on the successful development of Europe as a ‘security community’.’ - Professor Lawrence Freedman, King’s College London, UK

The Security Dilemma

Ken Booth, E.H. Carr Professor of International Politics and Nicholas Wheeler, Professor of International Politics, both at University of Wales, UK

This provides the first comprehensive analysis of the concept of the ‘security dilemma’. By exploring the theory and practice of the security dilemma through the prisms of fear, co-operation and trust, it considers whether the security dilemma can be mitigated or even transcended, analyzing a wide range of historical and contemporary cases.
U.S. Strategy Against Global Terrorism
How It Evolved, Why It Failed, and Where It is Headed

Andrew T H Tan, Associate Professor and Convenor, International Studies, University of New South Wales, Australia

This book examines the various strategies, including Global Counterinsurgency (GCOIN), which have been put forward as alternatives to the Global War On Terror (GWOT), concluding that while a consensus can be found on the key elements of a grand strategy, based on failures in the GWOT, it is far from clear if any GCOIN strategy could work.

Five Years of My Life
An Innocent Man in Guantanamo

Murat Kurnaz, Turkish Citizen and Legal Resident of Germany, where he was born in 1982 (he was in the process of becoming a German citizen when he was arrested in Pakistan and held prisoner for five years)

'The most compassionate, truthful and dignified account of the disgrace of Guantanamo that you are ever likely to read.’ - John le Carré

The gripping account of an innocent man held prisoner in Afghanistan and Guantanamo for five years

Times of Terror
Discourse, Temporality and the War on Terror

Lee Jarvis, Lecturer, Department of Politics and International Relations, Swansea University, UK

‘In a theoretically sophisticated, richly textured and incisive analysis, Times of Terror eloquently deconstructs the origins, dynamics and consequences of the current politics of terror.’ - Dr Richard Jackson, Department of International Politics, Aberystwyth University, UK

Since 11 September 2001, the War on Terror has dominated global political life. The book takes a critical look at different ways in which the George W. Bush administration created and justified this far-reaching conflict through their use of language and other discursive practices.

Humanitarian Intervention

An Introduction

Aidan Hehir, Senior Lecturer in International Relations, Centre for the Study of Democracy, University of Westminster, UK

‘Highly recommended. Lively and accessible, and a wonderful resource for teaching. Aidan Hehir provides a comprehensive overview of the history, theory and practice of humanitarian intervention, and of the concepts, controversies, moral claims and political calculations that have shaped the field.’ - Anne Orford, Michael D Kirby Professor of International Law, University of Melbourne, Australia

‘Objectively surveying a wide range of perspectives on an inherently contentious topic, this is an outstanding teaching tool and a textbook from which scholars will benefit as much as their students.’ - Anthony F. Lang, Jr., School of International Relations, University of St Andrews, UK

A broad-ranging introduction to the theory, practice and politics of humanitarian intervention on the contemporary world, its historical background and future prospects after the experiences of Rwanda, Kosovo, Darfur and Iraq.

Privatising Peace
A Corporate Adjunct to United Nations Peacekeeping and Humanitarian Operations

Malcolm Hugh Patterson, Australian Lawyer who teaches International Law and International Relations

‘...an eminently readable and thought-provoking book.’ - Dr Christopher Kinsey, Defense Studies Department, King’s College London at the Joint Command and Staff College, Defense Academy of the UK

The history of United Nations peacekeeping is largely one of failure. This book puts a case for augmenting ad hoc peacekeepers with competent contract labour; and within the constraints of a new legal regime, supporting future operations with well-trained contractors who might subdue by force those who inflict gross human rights abuses on others.

Self-Defense in International Relations

Ruchi Anand, Associate Professor of International Relations, American Graduate School of International Relations and Diplomacy, France

The right to individual and collective self-defense in international law and politics has always been a controversial issue. Using the example of how the US employs self-defense against Iraq, this book uncovers new dimensions, which lead to innovative and practical strategies and analysis.

Counter-Terrorism, Aid and Civil Society

Before and After the War on Terror

Jude Howell, Professor; Director and Jeremy Lind,
Research Associate, both at Centre for Civil Society,
London School of Economics and Political Science, UK

'...a splendid melding of theory and analysis... belongs in libraries and on reading lists across a wide range of disciplines and courses.' - Mark Sidel, Professor of Law and Faculty Scholar, University of Iowa, USA

The book critically examines the effects of the War on Terror on the relationships between civil society, security and aid. It argues that the War on Terror regime has greatly reshaped the field of development and it highlights the longer-lasting impacts of post-9/11 counter-terrorism responses on aid policy and practice on civil society.

Political Settlements in Divided Societies

Consociationalism and Cyprus

Christalla Yakinthou, Honorary Research Fellow,
Political Science and International Relations, University of Western Australia, Australia

Yakinthou throws light on the challenges of adopting political settlements in frozen conflicts and divided societies by focusing on the conflict in Cyprus, the resolution of which has for years been held up, in large part by elite intransigence. The book offers answers for why elites in Cyprus are so unwilling to adopt a power-sharing solution.

Reconstructing Jihad amid Competing International Norms

Halim Rane, Deputy Director, Griffith Islamic Research Unit; Lecturer, National Centre of Excellence in Islamic Studies, Griffith University, Australia

This book examines the Israel-Palestine conflict from a constructivist perspective. It argues that in the context of international norms and identity factors, a contemporary methodology for the reconstruction of jihad is essential for achievement of a just peace.

Interviewing Experts

Edited by Alexander Bogner, Researcher, Institute of Technological Assessment, Austria, Beate Littig, Head of Sociology, Institute for Advanced Studies, Austria and Wolfgang Menz, Researcher, Institute for Social Science Research, Germany

Expert interviews are today a standard method of qualitative approach in the social sciences. It is surprising that methodological reflections about the expert interview are still lacking. This book gives a comprehensive overview of their theory and practice. The contributors are experienced theorists and practitioners of expert interviews.

Ethical Decision Making in Social Research: A Practical Guide

Ron Iphofen, Lecturer in Sociology, University of Wales, UK

'This is a pellucid, comprehensive and, most of all, practical guide to resolving the inevitable ethical dilemmas involved in human research.' - Professor Jerome Bickenbach, Queen's University, Canada

This practical, user-friendly guide examines ethics in research. It helps researchers to manage ethical dilemmas that arise while research is being planned, conducted and reported and includes a unique 'ethical review checklist', as well as other useful features, to aid ethics in practice.

Understanding the International Student Experience

Catherine Montgomery, Associate Director for Research, Centre for Excellence in Teaching and Learning, Northumbria University, UK

This text presents a contemporary approach to the experience of international students in Higher Education. Using empirical and qualitative data, the book explores their social and cultural context and its impact on their learning experience.
