INTRODUCTION

The 2008 Community and Ethnic Media directory is perfect to help your business expand its reach, whether you're a local hardware store or a supermarket. In these pages, you'll find contact information for dozens of newspapers, radio stations, and online news websites serving neighborhoods and ethnic communities from Mille Lacs to West St Paul. You'll also find profiles of more prominent media that will help you identify who your advertising might impact. Many of these media outlets serve very specific communities – perfect for your hair salon in Minneapolis' Seward neighborhood or your catering business in St Paul's Rondo neighborhood. Why waste money advertising in a media outlet that covers the entire metro area if you just need to tell your neighborhood that your furniture store is having a sale? Why use up your advertising budget buying Somali-language advertising in an English-language newspaper?

If you've never advertised before, you should be aware that newspapers and websites have a few requirements for advertising they will print. Each newspaper may have specific sizes for advertising, but generally, advertisements should be submitted electronically as Adobe Acrobat files (also called a "pdf"), with a resolution of 300 dpi. If you are buying an ad in a newspaper, you should design your ad in black and white: most papers only use colored ink on their front pages, and most advertising belongs inside. Regardless of what medium you advertise in, remember that repetition is key. Buying a smaller ad that will run over a longer period of time will help customers remember who you are; most newspapers make this easier by offering discounts if you advertise over the course of several issues.

Don't worry if you don't know how to make PDF files: most community newspapers in the Twin Cities offer first-time advertisers help designing an advertisement and crafting their message for maximum effect. Similarly, many radio stations offer to work with potential advertisers on the wording and placement of an advertising message, and will help you record it for broadcast.

The directory is organized by media type (print/online, radio, and television), with sub-categories for community media and media serving distinct ethnic communities. Dive in! Advertising in community and ethnic media connects you with very specific customers who care about their neighbors and who turn to these media outlets for information about their communities, events, and local businesses, offering you competitively-priced access to these important demographics.

Directory information compiled by the Refugee Health Department of the Minnesota Department of Health and the New America Media National Directory of Ethnic Media, with additional research by James Sanna. Edited by Sarah E. Bauer.

Gente de Minnesota (People of Minnesota) is a Spanish-only newspaper distributed throughout the Metro area. Every weekend, 10,000 copies are distributed to Latino households and another 10,000 are distributed at over 300 locations throughout the Twin Cities and its suburbs. Most of Gente's readership is recent immigrants between the ages of 26 and 65, primarily from Mexico, with limited English skills. Most are lower-income – many hold multiple jobs, and most work blue-collar jobs. Gente de Minnesota also reaches a smaller audience of bilingual Latino professionals who use the publication to stay on top of events in the Latino community. For Latino teens and younger adults, LCN produces Vida y Sabor (trans. here), a free weekly entertainment guide. The publication is distributed at over 300 locations around the Metro Area, including nightclubs and restaurants. 15,000 copies are printed every week. La Prensa de Minnesota is Minnesota's fully bilingual Spanish-English weekly newspaper, serving Minnesotans since 1991. The newspaper covers community, national, and global news, and is well-known as a leading local source of news impacting the Latino community. With a circulation of 10,000 distributed at over 250 locations throughout Minneapolis and St Paul, La Prensa reaches a diverse audience, including the many Latinos in Minnesota who do not speak Spanish. Lastly, LCN publishes El Directario, a Spanish-language business and services directory published every year and distributed for free in the Twin Cities and throughout parts of greater Minnesota with high Latino populations at Latino businesses, schools, churches, and community centers.

Women's Newspapers

Minnesota Women's Press 771 Raymond Ave St Paul, MN 55114 www.womenspress.com	Susan Feehan Phone: 651-646-3968 Fax: 651-646-2186 ads@womenspress.com	Since 1984, Minnesota Women's Press has published a bi-weekly newspaper "promoting communication by, about, and among women," focusing on women's ideas and issues. The Women's Press does more than connect with its readers – it actively reaches out to "talented readers" for content, asking women to submit columns, stories, and other short pieces on their work, social or political issues, and aspects of their lives, publishing these submissions in several specific sections of the paper. Most of these women are between the ages of 35 and 54, but almost one third are under 34, and are evenly divided between Minneapolis, St Paul, and Metro Area suburbs (zip code breakdowns are available from the publishers). The readership is well-educated – nearly 50% have a post-graduate degree or have pursued some post-graduate studies – but economically diverse: 41% make less than $35,000 per year, but 31% make over $60,000. Overall, readers are very loyal, and responsive to advertising: in a 2005 reader survey, 72% said they had read the Women's Press for over five years, and 55% reported that they had visited businesses advertised in the paper.

St Paul Publishing Company (The Downtown Voice/South St Paul Voice) 1643 South Robert Street West St Paul, MN 55118 www.stpaulpublishing.com	Mario Polanco Phone: 651-457-1177 Fax: 651-457-1077 sppc@stpaulpublishing.com	The St. Paul Voice has a rich history of providing the best local news and advertising coverage for St. Paul's West Side, West St. Paul and Mendota Heights since 1966. This newspaper prides itself on informing local residents of community news and events, and also to celebrate the accomplishments of individuals and organizations within the community. The neighborhoods served are very diverse both racially and socioeconomically, providing a range of exciting advertising opportunities. Circulation is 16,500, 15,000 of which are mailed directly to area residents. The Downtown Voice was started in 1994 to serve the growing 'urban village' in St Paul's Lowertown. Today, more than 8,000 people live in downtown in new and renovated apartments and condominiums, and the number continues to grow with the popularity of "urban living" among professionals. The Downtown St. Paul Voice is distributed free to apartments, condominiums and high traffic areas in St. Paul's historic Lowertown district and throughout downtown St. Paul, including St. Paul's skyway system. Circulation is 4,000 copies. Established in June 2004, this newspaper serves the community of South St. Paul—a suburban community with small town roots. Editorial content focuses solely on the issues, activities and personalities of South St. Paul. This focus ensures high readership of your advertising message when marketing to the 20,000-plus residents of the city. The South St. Paul Voice is distributed free to every home in South St. Paul (zip code 55075), as well as to high traffic business areas in South St. Paul. Circulation is 8,500 copies.

The Bridge 2600 Franklin Ave East Suite 2 Minneapolis, MN 55406 www.readthebridge.info	Cindy Collins Phone: 612-436-9162 Fax: 612-436-9199 cindy@readthebridge.info	The continuator of two venerable neighborhood papers – the Southeast Angle and the Seward Profile – the Bridge began publishing in 2005 when the two papers joined forces after 40 years of serving their respective communities. Serving the Minneapolis neighborhoods astride the Mississippi downstream of the city center, the Bridge provides these communities' best source for local news, features, and opinion. With a distribution of over 30,000 papers – most mailed directly to area residents and businesses on a subscription basis – the Bridge's readership is quite varied, reflecting the neighborhoods it serves. Readers are mostly young and middle-aged, with nearly 50% below age 35; readers are economically diverse, with 34% earning over $75,000 per year and 53% earning more than $50,000 (65% own their own home, however); 40% of readers have a college degree, and 37% have a graduate degree.

As their names suggest, North News covers North Minneapolis neighborhoods (north of downtown and west of the Mississippi), and the Northeaster covers Northeast Minneapolis (neighborhoods north of downtown and east of the river), as well as the suburban cities of St Anthony and Columbia Heights. Both papers are published twice monthly on Wednesdays and mailed to residences, with the Northeaster running 34,500 copies, and North News running 29,000 copies.

Reaching much of western St Paul south of I-94, and Lilydale, Mendota, and Mendota Heights south of the Mississippi, the Villager covers neighborhood and local news in its free monthly editions, mailed to homes and 105 newsstands. Its circulation of 60,000 (self-estimated readership 132,000) reaches a well-educated (50% have either a bachelors or advanced degree) and young audience (43% between 18 and 44 years old, and another 21% are below 18). Most of its readership works in white-collar jobs, with 32% of area families making between $50,000 and $100,000 per year, and another 19% making over $100,000 per year.

Uptown Neighborhood News 3612 Bryant Ave South Minneapolis, MN 55409 http://www.carag.org/ news/unn.htm	Susan Hagler Phone: 612-825-7780 susanhagler@earthlink.net	Uptown Neighborhood News is published every month by the Calhoun-Area Residents Action Group (CARAG) and the East Calhoun Community Organization (ECCO). Between them, these two organizations cover the area between Lake Calhoun in the West and Lyndale Avenue to the East, and Lake Street to the north and 36th Street to the south; the newspaper is distributed free to residents as well as to businesses in the Uptown area. UNN is very connected to its readers -- contributors are area residents who volunteer their time to bring the news of the area to residents. Circulation is 5,100, with a pass-along readership of 10,000 in one of Minneapolis' most popular and vibrant neighborhoods.

Southside Pride 3200 Chicago Avenue Minneapolis, MN 55407 www.southsidepride.com	David Goldstein Phone: 612-822-462 Fax: 612-822-0342 david@pulsetc.com	Southside Pride is three monthly newspapers published and delivered in three editions for three very different communities. Southside Pride – Phillips Powderhorn Edition is delivered on the 1st Monday of the month; the Nokomis Edition is delivered on the 2nd Monday of the month; the Riverside Edition is delivered on the 3rd Monday of the month. The total circulation for all three editions is 48,000 copies, making Southside Pride the largest community newspaper in the Twin Cities. Philips Powderhorn is a very diverse and vibrant community, including both one of the city's poorest neighborhoods and many young professionals, as well as a substantial part of Minneapolis' thriving Latino community. Nokomis is a much more affluent and less diverse neighborhood, with 87% owning their own home. Riverside, the smallest of the three areas and stretching from Cedar-Riverside down to Hiawatha, and like Powderhorn it includes both a substantial number of professionals and many lower-income families. The exact neighborhoods served are as follows: Elliot Park, Phillips, Corcoran, Bancroft, Bryant, Central, Powderhorn Park, Standish, Regina, Diamond Lake, Wenonah, Morris Park, Minnehaha, Ericsson, Field, Page, Keewaydin, Northrup, Cedar-Riverside/West Bank, Seward, Longfellow, Cooper, Howe, and Hiawatha.
