Re: Effectiveness of Vacation Week advertising

Dear Staff,

I've been meaning to write for some time now to express my support for Vacation Week, your 12-week summer tourism guide. I once ran a coupon in an ad for a free ice cream cone, and the volume of customer responses became such a nuisance on busy nights that we had to discontinue it.

Since that time, and for more than a decade, I've been running three large ads in Vacation Week every summer. You wouldn't catch me doing that if it wasn't effective. When it comes to advertising, I vote with my checkbook. Cheap advertising that's ineffective is the most expensive advertising. Effective advertising, like that in Vacation Week, is a deal.

The value-added bonus of Vacation Week is the stories and photos you run for advertisers. I've seen my business perk up on Vacation Week publication days. In fact, just the photos of families dining at Alexander's Pizza would be enough.

Thank you for helping me tell the story of quality pizza at Alexander's Pizza the past 30 years. I can't believe that more restaurants don't take advantage of this well-known summer tourism guide.

Sincerely,

Brian Crist
